These unusually large novel bulbs are quite rare. They produce exotic ball-shaped lavender-colored flowers approximately 20 in. in circumference. They have gigantic stalks five to six feet tall. Second year after planting each bulb will yield about four stalks. Green foliage forms at the base and grows 1½-2 feet tall. The normal blossoming time is June or July. Flowers will last a month in the garden. Plant bulbs 18 inches apart and about 12 inches deep. They are hardy and may be left in the ground undisturbed for many years.

Picture furnished with 25 or more bulbs.
